

A portrait of George de Mestral, an elderly man with white hair, wearing a brown suit, light blue shirt, and a blue and gold striped tie. He is looking directly at the camera with a slight smile. The background is a warm, textured yellow. To his right, there is a dark, circular object on the wall, a potted green plant in a terracotta pot, and a black microscope on a stand.

"Nature is a great source of inspiration. Sometimes the simplest things can lead to the most revolutionary ideas."

George de Mestral