

A composite image featuring a portrait of Mark Twain on the left and a boy running with a kite on the right. Mark Twain is an older man with white hair and a beard, wearing a dark suit. The boy is in the background, running through a field of tall grass, holding a string for a red kite. The sky is blue with some clouds.

"Keep away from people who try to belittle your ambition. Small people always do that, but the really great make you feel that you too, can become great."
