

If the rules of society only benefit the powerful, then they are not just. The rules should be fair for everyone, ensuring that all people, no matter their status, are treated equally and follow them.

Me too.

I completely agree.