

Peter Singer 1946–Present

Peter Singer is a modern philosopher from Australia who is famous for his ideas about being kind to animals and caring for the environment. He believes that animals should be treated with respect, just like people. Singer teaches us to think about how our actions affect all living things, not just ourselves.

One of his key ideas is called "equal consideration of interests." This means that the needs and feelings of both people and animals should be taken seriously, and we should always try to reduce suffering. He encourages us to make choices that help not just humans, but animals and the planet too.

Peter Singer's work has had a big impact on the way we think about animal rights and kindness. He has inspired many people to be more thoughtful about how they treat animals and the environment. His ideas help us understand the importance of being fair and kind to all living beings, and they remind us to make the world a better place for everyone.